

At the present time XM Instant Traffic & Weather is not available for my local area. I am very envious of those people who have this service in their local area. I have used the service several times when I have had to travel to Tampa FL it is a service that I would greatly miss if I had to try to navigate the traffic mess in Houston or Tampa. The weather service is invaluable in the Dallas/Fort Worth area. What I have found is something that is not provided at all by the local radio stations at all. I can get the weather from television the evening before at the motel but later that day things change. I do not understand why NAB is complaining about someone providing a service that they are unwilling to provide.
